Introduction

Illinois Directory of Waterway Terminals 1998 has been prepared by the Illinois Department of Transportation, Office of Planning and Programming as part of its responsibility for conducting port and waterway development planning and for studies of port and waterway development problems.

The Directory provides the State, terminal operators, barge and vessel operators, shippers, industrial developers, and other interests with an inventory of active waterway terminals in Illinois.

A terminal is a cargo handling facility on an inland waterway or in a harbor. A terminal includes the dock, transfer equipment, storage area, land access and other related cargo handling facilities. The Directory includes information about each active waterway terminal in the state, including its name, location, and the major commodities handled at each terminal.

Illinois Directory of Waterway Terminals 1998 is an update of Illinois Directory of Lake and River Terminals 1994. The Department publishes this report periodically to reflect changes in ownership and operation of terminals in Illinois. Please contact the Department at the following address with any comments, changes or corrections.

There is no charge for copies of Illinois Directory of Waterway Terminals 1998. To receive a copy, please contact:

Waterway Terminals in Illinois

The State of Illinois has 310 active waterway terminals. These terminals handled a total of 125.6 million tons of cargo during 1995. The major commodities handled at Illinois' terminals include grain, coal, agricultural and industrial chemicals, petroleum products, and sand and gravel. Additional tonnage information in Illinois Waterborne Commerce Statistics 1970-1995, published by the Illinois Department of Transportation, Office of Planning and Programming.

The terminals are grouped by waterway for this Directory. Within each waterway, the terminals are ordered by river mile. The following table identifies the number of terminals located on each navigable waterway in Illinois.
